

Missiology

Missiology is the study of all aspects of the mission of the Church, including theology and history of missions, current mission practice and experience, multicultural studies including that of other world religions, and social and economic issues that affect mission.

Courses

WREL 502 Missiology (1)

This course examines all aspects of the mission of the Church, including theology and history of missions, current mission practice and experience.