Course Descriptions

Ordinarily classes in the School of Letters meet for 2,100 minutes over the course of a six-week session. Many literature classes will meet five days a week for 75 minutes per class session. Creative writing workshops, and some literature seminars, usually meet only two days a week, for two to three hours per session. These courses carry three hours credit each. Some classes may meet for fewer hours and carry less credit, if approved by the Director and the School of Letters Committee.

Introduction to Graduate Studies Course

Students in the School of Letters may participate in this Introduction to Graduate Studies mini-seminar to introduce them to graduate-level work. It is designed to help students efficiently organize a process of learning applicable to their literature classes; it will meet for approximately one hour on each of the first three Wednesday afternoons of the program (when no other classes are scheduled). A fourth, optional meeting may be announced. Prior to the first meeting, there will be a library orientation at duPont Library.

The course is required; however, returning Master of Arts students, and new and returning Master of Fine Arts students, may enroll in the course on a space-available basis. There is no credit and online registration is not required. Incoming students will be notified via email regarding procedures for signing up for the class.

Courses

ENGL 500    Dante (3)
Close study of the three books of The Divine Comedy, with attention as well to Dante’s literary ancestors including Virgil.

ENGL 502    Bible as Literature (3)
Introduction to both the Hebrew Bible and the New Testament, treating the texts, as much as possible, as literary documents open to multiple interpretations. Emphasis is on close reading of important episodes, in several translations. Supplemental readings will include representations of the Bible by major authors and artists.

ENGL 503    Literary Criticism (3)
This course considers some of the great questions about the nature and value of literature addressed by literary theorists from Plato to the present, engaging such critical approaches as the New Criticism, reader response theory, Marxist criticism, feminist criticism, psychoanalytic criticism, structuralism, deconstruction, new historicism, and cultural studies.

ENGL 504    Film Studies: Film as a Narrative Art (3)
While closely examining several classic films, the course introduces students to the major components of film style, essential techniques of film analysis and the critical vocabulary required for it, and some film theory.

ENGL 505    Classics of Latin American Literature (3)
Study of the literature of Spanish America, with special emphasis on major prose writers of the twentieth century, including Borges, Vargas Llosa, and Garcia-Marquez.

ENGL 506    Studies in Literature in Translation (3)
Though its content varies from semester to semester, this class always focuses on a special topic in a non-English literature, studied through texts in English translation. Examples might include authors on a single author, a literary movement or tradition, a genre, or a theme. This course may be repeated for credit when the topic differs.

ENGL 507    The Craft of Poetry (3)
Through close analysis of the poems of various modern and contemporary masters, we will consider the implications of verse as an imitation of voice, and consider how the poet’s voice is shaped by choices made in terms of imagery, themes, form and technique.

ENGL 509    Workshop in Poetry Writing (3)
Discussions center on students’ poems. Selected readings are assigned to focus on technical problems of craftsmanship and style.

ENGL 510    Workshop in Fiction Writing (3)
Discussions center on students’ fiction. Selected readings are assigned to focus on technical problems of craftsmanship and style.

ENGL 512    Workshop in Creative Non-Fiction (3)
Discussions center on students’ prose. Selected readings are assigned to focus on technical problems of craftsmanship and style.

ENGL 513    Writing Pedagogy (3)
Focuses on imaginative and innovative ways to teach writing. It offers a variety of creative writing techniques and exercises which participants can incorporate into their own English courses as well as into other courses across the curriculum. The course will be useful to participants’ own creative ventures as well as their teaching.

ENGL 514    Workshop in Playwriting/Screenwriting (3)
Discussions center on students’ plays or screenplays. Selected readings are assigned to focus on technical problems of craftsmanship and style.
ENGL 530  Tennessee Williams (3)
A close study of Tennessee Williams’s major dramatic works, as well as his poetry and fiction and the films based on the major plays. The course also looks at the biographical genesis of Williams’s plays and will focus on the development of and interplay between his concepts of gender, sexuality, and religion. An examination of the critical responses to the plays and films is used to gauge shifts in the American social and cultural landscape.

ENGL 544  Independent Study (3)
An individualized course designed to meet the curricular needs and interests of a particular student. May be taken only by special arrangement with the proposed instructor, and with permission of the School of Letters Director. This course may be repeated for credit when the topic differs.

ENGL 553  The Romance of Arthur (3)
A study of the literature surrounding the figure of King Arthur and the knights of the Round Table, from its origins in the early Middle Ages to the present. Readings include The Knight of the Cart by Chrétien de Troyes, the Middle English verse romance Sir Gawain and the Green Knight, Malory’s Morte D’Arthur, Tennyson’s Idylls of the King, Twain’s A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur’s Court, and Bernard Malamud’s baseball novel, The Natural. We will also consider offshoots of Arthurian legend in the visual arts, opera, and such films as Excalibur, The Fisher King, and Monty Python and the Holy Grail. The final assignment for the course may be either a term paper or a creative project.

ENGL 557  Shakespeare (3)
Advanced study of major plays and lyric poems of William Shakespeare, and of major critical traditions regarding Shakespeare’s work.

ENGL 562  Milton (3)
A study of Milton’s poetry and prose considered in relation to the political, ecclesiastical, intellectual and literary life of seventeenth-century England. Primary attention is to Paradise Lost.

ENGL 563  Hebraism and Hellenism (3)
This course examines the Greek and Biblical traditions inherited by English culture and follows the transformations, adaptations, subversions, and consumptions of these texts and influence. Reading includes passages from the Old and New Testaments, the Homeric epics, and selections from such English writers as Milton, Pope, Fielding, and Byron.

ENGL 566  Dr. Johnson and the Poets (3)
Close study of several major English poets (Shakespeare, Donne, Cowley, Milton, Dryden, Pope, Swift, Gray) through the lens provided by the great critic Samuel Johnson, who wrote about them all. The course also looks ahead to such modern writers as Robert Lowell and Samuel Beckett, who read Johnson as a model and inspiration.

ENGL 570  British Romanticism (3)
Study of major literary works and theories of the Romantic period in Britain, including poetry by Blake, Wordsworth, Coleridge, Shelley, and Keats.

ENGL 572  Special Topics in British Literature (3)
Though its content varies from semester to semester, this class always focuses on a special topic in British literature not fully covered in existing courses. Examples might include courses on a single author, a literary movement or tradition, a genre, or a theme. This course may be repeated for credit when the topic differs.

ENGL 577  Nineteenth Century American Literature (3)
Studies in the fiction, nonfiction, and poetry written in the United States from the age of Washington Irving to that of Henry James, including major authors of the American Renaissance, the rise of Realism and Naturalism, and the beginnings of Modernism.

ENGL 581  Modern British Poetry (3)
Examination of the modern period in British poetry, including close study of Hardy, Hopkins, Yeats, Lawrence, Auden and others.

ENGL 585  Literary Humor (3)
Despite E.B. White’s warning that analyzing humor is like dissecting a frog (‘it tends to kill the frog’), this course examines the serious ends of funny fiction by modern British and American writers, working toward an understanding how humor functions in literature and culture. Reading will include novels by Stella Gibbons, Evelyn Waugh, Kingsley Amis, Richard Russo, Zadie Smith, and others.

ENGL 589  Modern American Fiction (3)
Between 1900-1950, literary authors avidly experimented with new forms and philosophies as they depicted rapid changes in sexual, racial, social, and political identity in the US. After defining the relevance of movements such as regionalism, realism, and modernism, this course addresses the historical and social effects of two world wars, immigration, and urbanization. Authors include Henry James, Edith Wharton, Willa Cather, Sherwood Anderson, William Faulkner, Richard Wright, and Patricia Highsmith. Short readings may be added by Gertrude Stein, Eudora Welty, John Dos Passos, James Baldwin, and F. Scott Fitzgerald.

ENGL 592  The Contemporary Short Story (3)
Among the considerations of this discussion-oriented class will be strengths and weaknesses of stories, collections, and authors of the recent past. Along with speculating about what contemporary fiction can tell us about contemporary culture, we will address specific curriculum issues as they apply to the contemporary short story and the general topic of literary evaluation. Authors discussed include George Saunders, Edward P. Jones, Jamie Quatro, and Rebecca Lee.
ENGL 593  Faulkner (3)
Study of the celebrated novels of Faulkner’s major phase—INCLUDING Sanctuary, The Sound and the Fury, Absalom, Absalom!—AS WELL AS THE AUTHOR’S SIGNIFICANT BUT OFTEN OVERLOOKED WORK IN POETRY AND SHORT FICTION.

ENGL 594  Literature of the American South (3)
Advanced study of the literary tradition of the U.S. South, with emphasis on such major writers as Mark Twain, Charles Chesnutt, William Faulkner, Eudora Welty, Robert Penn Warren and others of the Agrarian circle, Zora Neale Hurston, and Flannery O’Connor.
Attention also to antebellum and contemporary southern writing, and to writers associated with Sewanee.

ENGL 595  African-American Literature (3)
Advanced study of the major traditions of African-American writing from the nineteenth century to the present, including Frederick Douglass, Linda Brent, Langston Hughes, Richard Wright, Ralph Ellison, Ernest Gaines, Toni Morrison, and Rita Dove.

ENGL 596  American Environmental Literature and Ecocriticism (3)
Exploration of the “green theme” and the emerging cross-disciplinary character of “ecocriticism” as reflected in writings selected from the full span of American cultural history. Readings from diverse genre include both traditional literary texts and seminal nonfiction by figures such as William Bartram, John Muir, Aldo Leopold, Rachel Carson, Annie Dillard, Barry Lopez, and Wendell Berry.

ENGL 598  Forms of Fiction (3)
How does fiction “work”? This course attempts to answer that question with close study of stories, novellas, and novels with a special emphasis on issues of form and technique.

ENGL 599  Thesis (3 or 6)
